

DESIGNING YOUR SITE PLAN

We need you to give a layout for your event – to show us where you are planning to site key elements of your event.

Accurate site plans are very helpful when you are doing the site build as you are able to clearly direct people when they arrive on-site to their correct position.

Site plans are also a useful tool in the event design process as you can plan how people will enter the site, how people will interact with the site and how people will move about the site.

Your site plan should include elements such as the following:

Placement of all temporary structures	All other site infrastructure
Any fencing or barriers	Generator or power sources
Power supply runs (cables)	Entry and exit points
Emergency exits and assembly points	First aid points
Information point	Lost children's point
Vehicle entry points	Any event décor, i.e. flags, banners etc
Event organiser point
