How much will I pay for policing?

2017-18

What is the Policing Precept?
The Policing Precept is simply the amount you pay towards policing in the county each year.

It is collected through your Council Tax and the amount you pay depends on your Council Tax Band.

Your local authority then passes the appropriate amount to the Police and Crime Commissioner, who is responsible for allocating the policing budget to the appropriate areas, including to the Chief Constable to carry out operational policing.

The Council Tax Bands for 2017-18 have been increased by 1.99% over 2016-17.

Who pays Council Tax?
All residential houses in the country, whether owned or rented, are required to pay Council Tax.

There are discounts or exemptions available for people who meet certain criteria.

To determine if you have to pay, please contact your district or borough council.

Your Police and Crime Commissioner

Police and Crime Commissioners (PCCs) represent the public at local, county levels. It is the role of Stephen Mold, PCC for Northamptonshire, to:

- Set the strategic direction for policing through the Police and Crime Plan.
- Be responsible for the totality of policing in the county.
- Hold the Chief Constable to account, and to hire or fire the Chief Constable.
- Decide how a budget of over £120million will be spent.
- Lead support services for victims and witnesses of crime.
- Improve community safety and help evolve the criminal justice system.
- Contribute to resourcing national and international responses to threats.
